Business Men and Their Interest in the Campuign.

One of the most important facts of the present Presidential campaign is the unwillingness of a great majority of the busi-ness community of the North to allow the Government to pass into the hands of the Democracy. Business men are well satisfied with the present presperous condition of things. Manufacturers are kept busy, labor is employed at good wages, foreign the case, but their bad record in the past dispels that hope.

We would dread a destruction of the public credit and a crippling of manufac- land city has 425 manufacturing industries, turing interests, and a destruction of the each of which yields hunnally a product present successful system of National of more than $500. This large number of States, and it is ressonable to suppose that these stickers for States Rights will have more regard for a debt that constant Every scheme for getting rid of this debt, ment of it, will be warmly welcomed by the South. The public debtshould not be entrusted to an administration elected by the South, The public debt should not be entrusted to an administration elected by Southern votes and supported by a Congress controlled by Southern members.

This grave consideration should make a deep impression upon the business classes throughout the North. The attitude of the Democratic party toward the present tariff system is another cause for the reluctance of business men to trust them with the head of the Government. Outside of the States largely engaged in manufacturing, the party is almost solid in its opposition to protection. In the West and South it openly favors free trade. The logical conclusion after reading the tariff plank in the Cincinnat platform, is that the Democracy intends so that the tariff plank in the Cincinnat platform, is that the Democracy intends so that the tariff plank in the Cincinnat platform, is that the Democracy intends so that the conditions are so different that the take will all end in smoke. As a condition are so different that the take will all end in smoke. As conditions are so different that the take will all end in smoke. As callingly deals largely with Chicago, your platform, is that the Democracy intends so far to reduce duties that foreigners may be enabled to fill our markets with their goods and undersell American manufac-Such a policy would hundreds of manufacturing establishments, thereby depriving thousands of mechanics of any employ ment. The Democratic tariff plank might not be the occasion for so much alarm were it not for the great power of the South in the Democratic party. Why take the risks of such a party? Will they reduce government expenses? They will not, be-cause they had control of the appropriations for five years, and their bills are con-stantly increasing. Will they harmonize the North and South and end this bitter sectional strife? Would they improve the civil service? Not at all. There is a horde of hungry office seekers ready to seize upon the offices and turn out the present well-trained incumbents. In no way can Democratic success benefit the country. WOOD PULP FOR BARRELS .- Wood pulp, so conspicuous of late years as a material for the manufacture of paper, has been found to afford one of the best means of making light, cheap, durable barrels, adapted for all purposes for which these useful packages are demanded. The barrel is made in one piece of coarse wood pulp, subjected to a pressure of 400 tons. The heads are made in the same way, giving a degree of compactness of grain that is sufficient for every use. When the bar-rels are put together they are very light, very strong and very satisfactory in every way. Two kinds of barrels are made, one children to hate it. I have lived hating it, and many for fruit, flour and other dry substances, mean to go to my grove hating it."—Speech of the other for oil, lard, beef, pork and Jake Jackson, Dem. candidate for Governor, at liquids of all kinds. These latter are made impervious to the infiltration of oil and other liquids by a simple process. The flour barrels are so strong that when were they alive. These are the same principles fifted they can be dropped from a wagon without injury, and fruit packed in then keeps a long while, being excluded from all contact with the air. These package can be made for half the cost of ordinary barrels, and will prove of the greatest service to farmers.

THE value of the wool-growing interes of the country is so great as to be almost beyond the belief of those not actively engaged in the business. In 1878 the wool lip was 245,000,000 pounds, which, at the average value of 28 cents per pound would make the entire clip amount to $68,600,-000. In 1878 the clip was 232,000,000 pounds, amounting to $64,960,000 and in 1880 it was 300,000,000 pounds, valued a $84,000,000, an increase over last year of 55,000,000 pounds, and over 1878 of 68, 000,000 pounds.

Tug English 'iron market has taken lownward plunge, and the movement may find an explanation in the fact that the imports of English iron into the United States fell off from about 220,000 tons in April last to 53,000 tons in July. A falling off of 160,000 tons per month in the demand is apt to make any iron market

The Tariff Question.

Many Democrats insist that if their party, at the next election, obtains control of every branch of the General Govern ment, that there will be little, if any r is employed at good wages, foreign change; that the tariff-for-revenue plank merce shows a bandsome balance in means nothing. Other Democrats think labor is employed at good. wages, foreign commerce shows a handsome balance in our favor, and money is plenty. In a word, everything, as far as business is concerned, is in a prosperous condition.

Manufacturers, bankers and business men generally distrust the Democratic party and are deeply interested in the Republican campaign.

Three consecutive administrations of the Republican party have assured the people of this country that their policy is a safe one. General Garfield's record on all business questions before Congress for the last twenty years has something to dwith the attitude of these men, contrasting, as it does, very strongly with that of General Hancock who has no record in this regard that could be appealed to for controling his course, if heshould be elected.

What may be expected if the Democratis are successful? In this particular uncertainty is found one of the chief sources of weakness in the Democratic party. The Democratic, who have been out of power for twenty years, might hope for success this year, in spite of the memories of the beaton rebellion, and of their cry of Solid South, if they could assure business mentat they would not disturb the present prosperous condition of business. Their stump speakers protest that such will be the case, but their bad record in the past dispels that hope.

Manufacturers, lands the stafff.for-revenue on plants differently. A few days ago a prominent differently. A few days ago a prominent of the party, who happens to be eagsed in the busineses of manufacturing, conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing and he busineses of manufacturing and he busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manufacturing conversed with a man engaged in the busineses of manuf
